

Every CarGo Desk is designed to accept the TSA approved Search Alert locks offered by your CarGo Desk authorized distributor or retailer. The new SearchAlert resettable combination padlock offers two unique innovations in travel security:

1. SearchAlert may be opened with a secured access device controlled by Transportation Security Administration (TSA). No SearchAlert lock should be cut off by TSA agents.
2. SearchAlert features a Security Window that changes color for Green to Red when any secured access device is used.

The Security Window shows RED under the following conditions:

- *Luggage checked at an airport is sent through an electronic screening. If a TSA agent determines the luggage needs to be hand searched, the Search Alert lock will be opened by the agent. When the TSA secured device is used, the Security Window changes color from Green to Red. The Security Window also changes color from Green to Red if a counterfeit secured access device is used to open the SearchAlert lock.
- If a TSA agent hand searches a piece of luggage, the agent will leave a TSA Notification of Baggage Inspection in the bag. If the Search Alert lock Security Window shows red and no official Notification of Baggage Inspection is found, the traveler should take the luggage to the airline's luggage claim office to determine if anything is missing, or if anything has been added to the luggage.

*Your CarGo Desk would be considered checked luggage for purposes of this discussion.

SearchAlert®

By PRESTOLOCK®

Operating Instructions

This PRESTOLOCK product is preset at the factory to open at 0-0-0.

To reset your SearchAlert combination lock to open on your own combination follow these simple steps:

- Step #1: Set the dials to 0-0-0 and pull out the shackle.
- Step #2: Turn shackle halfway around (180 degrees) and push in.
- Step #3: Hold shackle depressed and turn 90 degrees (1/4 turn) in either direction.
- Step #4: Set the dials to your own combination. Memorize the combination.
- Step #5: Without moving the dials, return the shackle to the 180 degree position. Pull out shackle and turn it 180 degrees.
- Step #6: Push shackle in, it should not lock. Push shackle in and turn one or more dials, the shackle should lock.
- Step #7: To test, turn dials to the new combination, pull shackle open. Combination can only be changed when the lock is in the open position. Follow steps 2 through 6.

SearchAlert®

By PRESTOLOCK®

Security Window Operating Instructions

This PRESTOLOCK product is preset on Green at the factory.

If a secured access device was used to open your SearchAlert combination lock, the color of the Security Window would change from Green to Red. To reset your SearchAlert Security Window back to Green, follow these simple steps:

- Step #1: Set the dials to the correct combination and pull up the shackle.
- Step #2: Turn the shackle 180 degrees, and push shackle in. The Security Window should change color from Red to Green.
- Step #3: Pull up the shackle and the SearchAlert is ready for full use.

